Hongkong, December 5th, 1877. "THE Anonymous Author" of the pamphlet on the Central School takes objection to our pointing out the absurdity into which he fell by reason of his singular confusion | sakes and our own of terms and objects. In all discussions it is absolutely necessary, if any definite result is to be attained, that the meaning of each berm should be clearly understood and that the term should be used as signifying only its own object. Our pamphleteer claimsthat secularists are really and truly a sect; if a sect they must necessarily be sectarians; steamer Yesso, who was scalded, and whose in the between dock, and my brother was standbut the pamphleteer himself finds it necessary to use the word "secularists," as an antitheton to the word "sectarians, in which in truth it is, and this is simply what we pointed out, though apparently not with sufficient clearness, for our author returns again to the charge, still urging that sectarianismand secularism are one and the same thing. Little good, however, can come from the discussion of words, and we should not have opened the question had not an argument been sought to be established on the misuse of a term. Arguing from the dictionary it is of course easy to show that any party may be termed a sect, but any particular subject of discussion generally gives rise to a particular use of terms, and in the present question there are but two parties concerned, and these parties are respectively "called " sectarians " and " secularists." opponent of the Central School seems in effect to hold out the right hand of fellowship to the secularists, saying, "You are one with us, brothers, you are a sect and no longer secularists, wherefore the cause of difference?" The Chinese circulate a rumour to the effect that all the native landowners on the line of the Woosung Railway, who had sold land to the late Railway Company for the formation of the line, had received intimation from the Taotai that they would be required to purchase back their land from him at the same price they had been.

Wen-kwei, the superintendent of the Imperial Silk Manufactory at Hangehow, whose arrival from Poking, by the Sin Nanzing, has been already announced, seems to evince great interest in foreigners and all that appertains to their ways and customs of doing business. On the 28th ult., accompanied by his three-sers very intelligent looking boys, just entering on their torns and about half-a dozen of his attendants; he sent for the prisoner, and prisoner told witness he visited several of the large business establish. ments in the Settlement, a native connected with one of the hongs in the Hankow Road acting as his cicerone. Wen kwei, although unable to speak English, manifested a great desire to undorstand everything he saw; and; like the majority: of mandarins, he was scrupulously polite and complimentary to all he came in contact with.

The following is an extract from a report by-Mr. Fraser to Lord Darby, dited Peking, June 1st. 1877:---

- The returns of the Foreign Customs Establishment do not record the whole amount of opium that passes into China. The Canton province, it is said, is supplied almost entirely by junks from Hongkong and Macao, whose cargoes pass through the native offices; and the quantity thus imported can only be computed at hazard at 14,000 piculs, an uncertain addition to the regularly ascortained figures of each year's importation. The Customs returns are given for the vears from 1866 to 1875 inclusively :- Imported n 1866, 64.516 piculs: 1867, 60.948 piculs: 1868 53,915 piculs: 1869, 53,413 piculs: 1870, 58,817 pionis: 1871, 59,671 pionis: 1872, 61,193 pionis 1873, 65.797 picula: 1874, 67.468 piculs; 1875 66.461 piculs. . Consequently, while the average yearly importation between 1866 and 1870 was 58.322 piculs, between 1870 and 1875 it was as much as 64,118 piculs, in spite of the fact that a much larger quantity of native opium was pro- Wet Thermometer ... duced in the last five years than in the preceding. Native opium, the produce of Yunnan; Kueichon, Szechuen, and Shansi, West, North-West, and Central China, has begun to be shipped from Hankow to Slaughai and other native ports. Upon this head the following information is given -Shipments of Szechuen pium from Hankow to native ports:, 1868, 110 iculs 89 c.: 1869, 433 piculs 90 c.: 1870, 22 piculs 5 c.: 1871, 10 piculs 57 c.: 1872, 323 piculs 42 c.: 1878, 155 piculs 14 c.: 1874, 109 piculs 81 c.: 1875, 898 piculs 50 c. In this calculation, again, the shipments by native vessels of this gained of the amount of drug produced in those parts of the empire for whose produce Hankow does not serve as an outlet, such as Manchuria or the Shantung and Chekiang Provinces. The comparative returns at the several ports are interesting. They show how the presence of the native drug at Newshwang Tientsin Chefoo. and Hankow has caused less and less Beuga opium to be consumed year by year in the districts they supply; while the habit of opium smoking has so increased in China that this loss was more than compensated up to 1875 by FET J. PICNICS. I hate all your slow ketflodrums-_Your matinees drive one insane, When people ait twirling their thumbs, And looking so bored and inana! Far better a cruise in a yacht (If you are not caught in a squall),

But when it is awfully hot.

A piento's the sweetest of all! It is like some axquisite dream-. The greenery pleasant and cool Overhead with the song of the stronm, And forms for your bacqueting stool! The odour of flowers, bestown Rare bonquet upon your Mosella-And somobody whispers she knows A sweet little spot in the dell!

And there, when the corks cease to fly-Champagne cup a thing of the past-You wander away on the sly, Alone and together at last ! Your whispers are borne on the wind-Dream on whilst the hours take wing!-But don't let them leave you behind-A picule 's a dangerous thing! .

A LITTLE BILL FOR AN EMPEROR The visit recently paid to the town of Kaschau, Hungary, by the Emperor Joseph, reminds me of an ancodote relating to a incident occurred many years ago. The town had been decorated for the then Emperor's reception, and at the moment of his Having delivered his address, he was solved, the bill being sent to him from reception. -- Mayfair.
